"THE AIM OF THE CRIMES AGAINST THE JEWISH PEOPLE, OF WHICH THE ACCUSED HAS BEEN CONVICTED, WAS TO BLOT OUT AN ENTIRE PEOPLE FROM THE FACE OF THE EARTH, AND THAT IS WHAT DISTINGUISHES THEM FROM CRIMES AGAINST PERSONS AS INDIVIDUALS," SAYS TEXT OF DEATH SENTENCE AGAINST ADOLF EICHMANN

West Germany's ambiguous reaction to Adolf Eichmann's death sentence reflected the equivocal attitude which the German public has displayed toward his trial from the outset, says Gaston Coblentz, writing from Bonn for the New York Herald Tribune. There was relatively little indication of a belief among the German people that justice triumphed in the Israeli courtroom.

From the start, observers have been aware that the German public, and many German government officials, have regarded the trial primarily as an irritating event which could damage West Germany's present-day interests.

Except for the extensive coverage of the Eichmann story by German newspaper men and television broadcasters, observers could see only limited signs that the proceedings in Jerusalem occasioned a sympathetic reaction toward the Jews. Instead, the public reaction to the trial was seen to develop largely along the following lines:

First, a torrent of complaints was heard that the non-German world was unwilling to let bygones be bygones, an attitude which a large part of the German population considers to be unconstructive and even hostile.

Second, a theory was widely propagated on all levels of the public that the Eichmann trial was staged by Germany's commercial rivals abroad in order to harm Germany's foreign trade. This view was also privately promoted by some government officials in Bonn.

Third, Israel's kidnapping of Eichmann from Argentina was condemned to an extent that virtually equated the deed with Eichmann's actions toward the Jews.

There was inevitably a degree of connection between the public's attitude toward the Eichmann case and the current state of anti-Semitism in Germany.

Despite the Bonn government's scrupulously proper official attitude toward Israel and world Jewry, says the New York Herald Tribune, there are recurrent indications that anti-Jewish sentiment remains deeply ingrained in the fabric of German life.

When the West German Government voiced its approval of the Israeli court's death sentence on Adolf Eichmann it appeared to be relieved that the trial was over, says Sidney Gruson, in the New York Times, from Bonn. Bonn's fears that the trial would unleash a new wave of anti-German feelings have proved unfounded, and the West Germans are grateful.

West German television gave a long account of the final proceedings in Jerusalem. From the beginning, the trial has been reported thoroughly in the West German press. No effort was made to shield the Germans from this deep look into their past.

Some observers in Germany believe the trial and the coverage by press, television and radio provided for the Germans have been a more powerful educational factor than all the sermons preached and books and articles written on the Hitler era.

There has been throughout the trial, and there was again on December 15, considerable editorial comment warning the Germans that they could not hide their responsibility for what happened behind the man in the dock in Jerusalem.

From Jerusalem, Rudolf Kuestermeier, one of the correspondents who reported the trial of the West German news agency, D. P. A., wrote:

"It would be wrong if the opinion spread that with Eichmann's death sentence everything is in order again. Nothing is in order. The question remains how these crimes were possible. The question remains how a repetition of such crimes can be prevented."

After finding that Eichmann was no different in background and character than many others, Herr Kuestermeier said, "No other conclusion is possible than that there are many Eichmanns in our midst."

The trouble, Herr Kuestermeier said, was that Eichmann learned in the "school of absolute obedience" and that, in common with millions of others, he "put orders above his conscience." This is still true in many countries, he added, citing the example of how the East German police shoot at refugees to show that "orders killed off conscience."

Writing in the Christian Democratic Union's newsletter, Matthias Hoogen, one of the party's leading deputies in Parliament said: "We are convinced that there are no longer and never will be any more Eichmanns in Germany."

The evidence uncovered at the trial, said Felix von Eckardt, the Government's chief spokesman, has proved Eichmann's "millionfold crimes." Eichmann's crimes, a Free Democratic party spokesman said, could not be expiated by his death, says the New York Times. Both the Free Democrats and Dr. Eugen Gerstenmaier, President of the lower house of Parliament, said that even those who opposed capital punishment must understand that no other sentence was possible in Eichmann's case.

Adolf Eichmann rested quietly in a police cell on December 15 after having been sentenced to hang for trying to exterminate the Jewish people and for crimes against humanity and war crimes, says Robert S. Bird, from Jerusalem to the New York Herald Tribune. "He is resting normally," a high police official said. The official added: "In fact, Eichmann is acting so normally that he seems abnormal."

The Israeli police official denied absolutely that Eichmann had been put into the red uniform of a condemned man. He was wearing, as in recent weeks, a prison cell costume consisting of an old Army sweater and trousers, the official said.

Within two hours after the death sentence pronouncement was begun at 9:17 a.m. (2.17 a.m. EST) by the three-judge Israeli tribunal, Eichmann's lawyer, Dr. Robert Servatius, left for the Lydda Airport to return to West Germany.

Before the sentencing, Dr. Servatius told newsmen that Eichmann had expected all along to be hanged. Even so, the lawyer said, Eichmann was depressed immediately after the verdict.

Dr. Servatius will return for the appeal of Eichmann's conviction and sentence, and his assistant, Dieter Wechtenbruck, remained to work on that.

Normally the defense has ten days in which to file notice of appeal and state its grounds, but Presiding Judge Moshe Landau said in sentencing Eichmann that his lawyer could ask the president of the Supreme Court for an extension of time if he needed it.

How long the appeal will take will depend entirely on what questions are raised — whether they will be confined to legal questions or will extend to matters of fact in the evidence itself.

But in any case it will be several months before the appeal is disposed of, and if the conviction and sentence are upheld there will probably be a request made by Eichmann for executive clemency and commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment.

The sentencing of Eichmann was a solemn and suspenseful proceeding. The 750 seats in the courtroom were filled long before 9 o'clock, says the New York Herald Tribune, and when that scheduled starting time came and passed without the appearance of the judges the tension mounted.

But the two previous days unquestionably were Eichmann's best days, so far as his demeanor went. He entered the court calmly some minutes before 9 o'clock and he remained cool and composed while everybody fidgeted until the judges filed onto the bench at 9:17.

Presiding Judge Landau said: "I open the 121st session of the trial. The court will now read out its sentence. The accused will rise."

Eichmann leaped to his feet and faced the court in a posture of attention, his hands held loosely at his sides in the beginning. For a few minutes the presiding judge analyzed the law on a question which had been raised by Israeli Attorney General Gideon Hausner, who contended that the death sentence was mandatory.

All this legalistic language was hard on the spectators, who had to wait that much longer for the fateful pronouncement. But it probably was interesting to Eichmann, for he has been a stickler for details throughout the trial.

Finally Judge Landau ruled that the measure of punishment was a matter of discretion for the court, and then his voice became grave and a little emotional. Eichmann now rested his knuckles on the little table in front of him, but remained otherwise at attention.

For the next few minutes, Judge Landau went into the very heart of the case against Eichmann, while the accused man gazed at the judge. Each sentence was simply phrased, but the content was awesome.

For Eichmann's own punishment and for the deterrence of others, the maximum penalty must be imposed, Judge Landau said. Eichmann's aim was "to blot out an entire nation." Such a total crime, and his crimes against humanity, says the New York Herald Tribune, are even graver than the "sum total of the criminal acts against individuals of which they are composed."

Yet his dispatching of a train of 1,000 Jews to Auschwitz and other places of extermination "amounted to direct participation in 1,000 acts of premeditated murder."

Even if the court had found that Eichmann acted out of blind obedience to orders, it still would have called for most severe punishment. As to Eichmann's motivation, it made no difference how "this inner identification and this desire originated" in his effort to attain his criminal objective of destroying the Jews.

Then came the sentence. The judge's voice was quavering and Eichmann seemed to narrow his eyes to take the blow.

"This court sentences Adolf Eichmann to death" —; Eichmann was now leaning forward and pressing hard on his knuckles on the table —"for the crimes against the Jewish people, the crimes against humanity, and the war crimes of which he has been found guilty."

Eichmann's face tightened just a little. But he didn't even gulp.

The judge said Eichmann was not being sentenced for his crimes of belonging to criminal organizations, for which he was also found guilty. But this was academic. Those crimes carried only ten-year maximum penalties, anyway.

Judge Landau went on for a few moments telling about appeals procedures, and that concluded the session. It was now 9:30. Dr. Servatius rose. "Thank you for the guidance," he said to the judge, "and I shall think it over."

There was no demonstration whatever in the court. The people filed out, marvelling at how calmly Eichmann had taken it, and pondering the gravity of the proceeding, says the New York Herald Tribune. Within minutes, the equipment within the courthouse was being dismantled and piled outside to be carted away.

The trial of Adolf Eichmann was ended.

As the court rose, Eichmann gave a slight, almost imperceptible bow, to his defense counsel, Dr. Robert Servatius of West Germany. Then he turned on his heels and left the glass cage through a hidden door leading to his cell.

All through the week of judgment Eichmann had behaved as though he were really the drab, unimaginative little bureaucrat he had sought to portray in his testimony, says the New York Times. To the end he had insisted that he was a small cog in the Nazi machinery, helplessly bound to obey superior orders for shipping Jews to death camps.

In his last words before the sentencing, he coldly expressed his "disappointment" over Israeli justice.

A police physician who examined Eichmann immediately after he had been condemned to death reported: "I found the prisoner completely unaffected — his pulse was normal, his breathing was steady. There was no agitation."

Yet the solemn moment of condemnation was not without tension. The judges were seventeen minutes late entering the court and during this period everyone except possibly Eichmann became increasingly nervous and restive.

The judges were delayed in their chambers by some last minute corrections in the written translations of their sentence, which was in Hebrew. As the minutes dragged by Eichmann sat stiffly in his cage glowering at the empty bench, never turning his eyes to the gallery.

Policemen scattered throughout the hall shifted uneasily. They had been reinforced against a possible demonstration that might ensue if the court handed down a sentence that fell short of the death penalty.

The crowd heard Eichmann's doom without a murmur of elation.

Outside, a crowd of about 100 waited for the judges to emerge. The gloomy, cold rain that had splattered Jerusalem during the brief sentencing session had ceased and now the city was radiant in winter sunshine.

The crowd, pressing against the security fence surrounding the main entrance, waited in vain. Police Superintendent Leo Koppel had let the judges out a rear door.

"They did not want any applause or backslapping," Mr. Koppel explained. "Such a demonstration would not be dignified."

The judges who condemned Eichmann for the murder of their people were well aware of the nature of the drama, says the New York Times. For the first time an Israeli court was pronouncing justice on a notorious persecutor of Jews.

The appeal [illegible] to challenge the competence of any court in Israel to try Eichmann as well as the court's verdict, which had found Eichmann guilty of crimes against the Jewish people, crimes against humanity, war crimes and membership in hostile organizations.

The Supreme Court, composed of five justices, will sit in the same courtroom where Eichmann was tried. Eichmann will hear the proceedings from the same bullet-proof glass cage, but he will have no opportunity to speak.

The hearing of the appeal might take several days to several weeks, depending on whether the appeal deals only with legal objections or contains both legal and factual objections. Eichmann was condemned for four crimes against the Jewish people, seven crimes against humanity, and a war crime.

Most of the counts cited the murder and persecution of Jews, but four dealt with forceful expulsions of Poles, Slovenes, Gypsies, and the children of the Nazi-razed Czech village of Lidice from their homes.

In its sentence, the court again rejected Eichmann's plea that his hands were clean of blood and that he was merely the transportation officer in the Nazi plot to exterminate the Jews.

"The dispatch by the accused of every train carrying 1,000 souls to Auschwitz or to any of the other places of extermination amounted to direct participation by the accused in 1,000 acts of premeditated murder," says the New York Times. "And his legal and moral responsibility for those murders is in no way less than the measure of liability of him who put those persons with his own hands into the gas chamber.

"Even had we had found that the accused acted out of blind obedience, as he alleges, yet we would have said that one who had participated in crimes of such dimensions for years on end has to undergo the greatest punishment known to the law and no order given to him could be a ground even for mitigating his punishment.

"But in fact we have found that, in acting as he did, the accused identified himself in his heart with the orders received by him and was actuated by an ardent desire to attain the criminal object."

In dismissing Attorney General Hausner's contention that the death sentence was mandatory, the court said that the measure of punishment in this case was a matter for the discretion of the court.

The court agreed that the intention of the Israel legislators who in 1950 enacted the law for the punishment of Nazis had been to make the death penalty mandatory.

But it also cited a later law amending the criminal law. This amendment, enacted in 1954, made every penalty provided in the law a "maximum penalty" thus implying that a lesser penalty could be handed down at the discretion of the courts.

The court said it had chosen the death penalty for Eichmann as "due punishment for the accused and for the deterrence of others." The court added:

"The aim of the crimes against the Jewish people  was to blot out an entire people from the face of the earth."

Mrs. Hyman Robinson, 6230 Hingston Avenue, was hostess to fifty luncheon guests, in the Koh Tiki Room of the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel, to celebrate the sixteenth birthday of her daughter, Judy. A round pink and white birthday cake and pink and white carnations, gladioli, and chrysanthemums adorned the table.

Mr. and Mrs. David Moses, 6041 De La Roche Street, gave a dinner party in the Persian Room, of Ruby Foo's, to celebrate the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlotte Beverley Moses, to Sydney Silcoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Silcoff, 5156 Hutchison Street. Eighty-two guests were present. Mrs. Moses was in a pink, chiffon gown, made with an off-the-shoulder neckline; and her flowers were a corsage of yellow orchids. Mrs. Silcoff was in a brown, chiffon sheath, trimmed with brown lace across the bodice; and made with a V-neckline; short sleeves; with a yellow and white orchid corsage. Miss Moses was in a mauve, satin brocaded gown, which had a V-neckline; and full bouffant skirt; with a corsage of yellow orchids. The table trimming was a round, white and gold-coloured cake in the shape of a horse-shoe, arranged with white and pink pom-poms and chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Luftman, 4884 Isabella Avenue, were honoured, with sixty guests present, at a dinner party in the Persian Room of Ruby Foo's, in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary, given by their son, Burt Luftman, and their sons-in-law and daughters: Mr. and Mrs. Irving Shwed, 5730 Westluke Avenue; and Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Stern, 6655 Macdonald Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Luftman have six grandchildren: Mrs. Harry Nozetz (Sheila); Mrs. Neil Weinman (Rona); and Arlene, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Shwed; Avena, Roslyn, and Linda Stern; and a great-granddaughter, Audrey Joy Nozetz. Mrs. Samuel Luftman is the sister of Max Litman, 4658 Coolbrook Avenue; and Myer Litman, of Toronto, Ont. A white and gold-coloured, double-tiered wedding cake and arrangements of pink and white carnations and gladioli decorated the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Sender Wasserman, 5772 Smart Avenue, celebrated the bar-mitzvah of their son, Allan, who was called to the Reading of the Law, at Beth David-Beth Yitzchok-Kehal Yeshurun Synagogue. He is the brother of Michael, aged ten years; and Debra, six; grandson of Mrs. Ray Levine, 5238 Trans Island Avenue, and the late Morris Levine; and of Mrs. Miriam Wasserman, 4655 St. Urbain Street, and the late A. Wasserman. Kiddush was observed. That evening Mr. and Mrs. Wasserman were hosts to two hundred and forty guests at a dinner dance in the Synagogue hall. Mrs. Wasserman was in an American-Beauty-coloured peau de soie gown, made with a beaded bodice; and bell-shaped skirt; and a wristlet of white orchids. Mrs. Levine, grandmother, wore a beige, peau de soie, beaded sheath. Mrs. Miriam Wasserman was in a pink, lace sheath. Their flowers were corsages of mauve orchids. Debra, wore an American-Beauty-coloured, organza, party dress. Mrs. Philip Polster lit the first candle. Those who lit the candles were: Mrs. Ray Levine, and Sydney Levine, uncle; Mrs. Miriam Wasserman, and Max Wasserman, uncle; Mr. and Mrs. Solly Levine, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Novak, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stein, Mr. and Mrs. Moe Sazant, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wasserman, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wasserman, Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Wasserman, Miss Jeanne Wasserman; uncles and aunts; Herbert Fefferman; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Yanofsky, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wasserman, great-uncles and great-aunts; Michael, brother of the bar-mitzvah boy; Debra, his sister; and Beverly Novak, his cousin. Seated at the head table with the family were: Rabbi Isaac J. Teicher, Rabbi N. Benjaminson, Allan's teacher, and Mrs. Benjaminson, and Mrs. Philip Polster. The bar mitzvah boy spoke. Rabbi Isaac J. Teicher asked a blessing over the challah. A white and gold-coloured bar-mitzvah cake, and yellow and bronze-coloured carnations and chrysanthemums formed the table centerpiece. Here for the occasion were: Robert Brinker, of Toronto, Ont.; and Herbert Fefferman, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wax, 1340 Allan Avenue, Chomedey, celebrated the bar-mitzvah of their foster son, Brian Shulman, who was called to the Reading of the Law, at Young Israel Synagogue of Chomedey. He is the son of Saul Shulman, 4535 Clark Street; brother of Leon, aged fourteen years; and Mindy, six; grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shulman, 924 Mount Royal Avenue East; and of M. Cabot, 4356 La Peltrie Street. Brian is the foster brother of Allan, aged ten years; Brenda, six; and Shawn, two and one-half years. Kiddush was observed. Following services Mr. and Mrs. Wax gave a luncheon, with forty guests, at their home. The hostess wore a green wool suit. Mrs. Shulman, wore a brown, silk sheath. A blue and white bar-mitzvah cake, with a centerpiece of blue and white carnations, trimmed the table. Prior to the bar-mitzvah, Mr. and Mrs. Wax gave a supper at their home, with twenty-five friends of the bar-mitzvah boy present.

Jewish Education: Preparation For Living As Jewish Canadians

Since the rise of the State of Israel there has been an influx of many hundreds of thousands of "olim" (new settlers) into the State. The Israelis would like to see a mass movement from the Western Jewish communities to Israel. The fact that this expectation is not being realized, certainly bespeaks a serious failure in our Zionist education heretofore. It may be that this condition will be rectified in the future.

Be this as it may, all but a very small minority among Zionists both in Israel and abroad realize that the Jews as a people will continue to live in the lands of the Diaspora. It is the general conviction that to the extent to which Jewish children in the lands of the Diaspora will be exposed to a more thorough Jewish education with Zionism as its central theme, the more ready will the Jewish people be to revitalize Jewish life in the Diaspora and give it a fuller content and meaning.

To the extent that Israel will prosper and develop in a peaceful world, and be free to cultivate its own cultural values, both in content and in form, the more will our Jewish parents and educators be in a position to draw on the resources made available in Israel for the enrichment of Jewish life in all the lands of the Diaspora. As for the aspiration for Chalutziut, the personal identification of the Jewish young men and women with the State of Israel, there is again no serious change called for in our educational system. This is a noble and legitimate aspiration, and should be developed and nourished, but now no more than heretofore, before the rise of the State, should it be predicated on negativistic grounds. This ideal must be grounded educationally on a purely positive motivation.

We will not educate our children towards Chalutziut as an escape from something — from an alien civilization, from an unfriendly society, from an undesirable milieu — but rather as an aspiration towards an ideal for self-fulfillment. A training for such a predisposition will not sour the individual, will not alienate him from his environment, but will rather stimulate him to live as full a Jewish life as is possible in his Jewish community, which is an integral part of his wider democratic society, and will prepare him to participate actively in enhancing the Jewishness of that community.

Israel is to be for the well-educated Canadian Jew his spiritual home, the cultural home of all Jewish people, his Mecca, his "Yerushalayim shel Maalah" (Jerusalem The Exalted). He will aspire to identify himself with it on whatever level is permitted him by his inclinations, talents, and circumstances.

To sum up: living as a Canadian Jew implies being deeply rooted in the Canadian scene, its landscape, traditions, culture, and peoples, being at the same time fully integrated with the Canadian Jewish scene, its social and cultural conditions, forever actively aspiring to improve them. It likewise means an alignment with the Jewish people the world over, its interests and aspirations, and with the cultural and spiritual home of the entire Jewish people, the land and the people of Israel.

How is this education for living as a Canadian Jew to be achieved? What are its component parts? What is their relative importance?

It is obvious that we are entering here on controversial ground. Our answers to these questions will of necessity be very sketchy, touching only on the major issues. Furthermore, while I shall endeavour to be as objective as possible, I must not presume to expect that my answers should prove equally satisfactory to all nuances of educational thinking and practice.

I should like first and foremost to express my absolute conviction that if the Jewish child is to be prepared to live as a Canadian Jewish adult he must first live a Canadian Jewish childhood. The child must live in a Canadian Jewish home and must be educated in a Canadian Jewish school. This is so obvious as to sound redundant, and yet we all know to our sorrow that this primary condition

MONTREAL MARRIAGES

GUREVITCH-SCHAFFER

The marriage of Miss Judith Beryl Schaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Schaffer, 915 Trudeau Street, to Morris Gurevitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gurevitch, 954 Jarry Street West, was solemnized at Beth El Synagogue, on December 10, at six o'clock, by Rabbi Allan M. Langner. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. Her gown was of white, silk peau de soie appliqued with Alencon lace and seed-pearl-beads. It had a fitted bodice; scoop neckline; short sleeves; and full, bouffant skirt ending in a short train. Her short veil of tulle illusion was combined with a crown of crystals; and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and roses. Mrs. Samuel Bellman, sister of the groom; and Mrs. Norman Stein were matrons of honour. The former was in a gold-coloured, semi-sheath gown of peau de soie; with a tiara of seed-pearl-beads and rhinestones; and carried a cascade of bronze and gold-coloured chrysanthemums. The latter was in a gown of gold-coloured peau de soie, the skirt longer at the back; and had a rhinestone tiara. She carried a sheaf of bronze and gold-coloured chrysanthemums. Miss Faigie Schaffer, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Her gown was of gold-coloured taffeta and had a bouffant skirt. Her crown was of seed-pearl-beads; and she carried a cascade of bronze and gold-coloured chrysanthemums. Samuel Bellman was best man for his brother-in-law. The ushers were: Norman Stein, Moishe Gurevitch, Allan Rubin, Joseph Picard, David Stark, Michael Goldenberg, David Nerwin, Phillip Stark, Lionel Bornstein, Samuel Teitlebaum, David Teitlebaum, and Abe Maged. Yellow roses and bronze-coloured chrysanthemums were arranged with greenery, yellow ribbons, and gold-coloured candles to decorate the Synagogue. An orchestra played. Two hundred and fifty guests were received in the Synagogue hall. Mrs. Schaffer, mother of the bride, was in a gold-coloured peau de soie gown. It was made with a lace bodice; scoop neckline; and sheath skirt with a panel at the back. She had a matching, beaded, pill-box hat. Mrs. Gurevitch, mother of the groom, was in a gold-coloured lace sheath which had a beaded bodice. Her hat was of that colour. Their flowers were corsages of bronze-coloured orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gurevitch spent their wedding trip in Miami Beach, Florida, the bride travelling in a white, wool, knitted suit; with a corsage of white orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Myer Teitlebaum, of New York, were here for the wedding.

Miss Eleanor Elman, who is on the staff of the Jewish General Hospital, in Montreal, Que., visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Elman, Elliott Row, Saint John, N. B.; also her uncle, Louis Boyaner, who was a patient at the Saint John General Hospital. She was entertained at a luncheon by Mrs. Lloyd Goldsmith.

Mrs. Jack Cowan, of Toronto, Ont., spent some time with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Tanzman, 617 Sand Cove Road, Saint John, N. B. She was entertained at a bridge evening by Mrs. Eli Boyaner and Miss Tauba Blitz; at dinner at the Admiral Beatty Hotel, by Mr. and Mrs. A. Calp; and at luncheon by Mesdames Mitchell Bernstein and Eli Boyaner.

Halifax, N. S., Beth Israel Synagogue Sisterhood celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary at a dinner. Dr. J. H. Greenblatt, congregational vice-chairman, was the dinner chairman. After dinner, "Our Fair Ladies", directed by Mrs. M. E. Burnstein, with Ralph Garson as musical co-ordinator and accompanist, was presented. The script was adapted by Mrs. Jack Newman and Dr. Greenblatt. The cast was: Mesdames Herman Newman, Jack Newman, Louis Newman, Samuel Rubin, Charles Ofer, M. E. Burnstein, Ralph Medjuck, J. H. Greenblatt. Mrs. Max Perman brought greetings from the Woman's Branch of the United Orthodox Jewish Congregations of which she is chairman of chapters and regions. Baron de Hirsch Congregation dates back to 1891, and was known then as the Baron de Hirsch Benevolent Society. The name was chosen to honor the great Jewish philanthropist, Baron de Hirsch, of Munich. In 1894 the congregation bought Chalmer's Church on Starr Street, and converted it into a synagogue. In 1917 the synagogue on Starr Street was destroyed by the Halifax explosion. Services were then held in various halls for the next few years. In 1920 the new synagogue on Robie Street was erected and served the Baron de Hirsch Congregation until 1957 when they moved to the new synagogue on the corner of Oxford and Coburg Road. Although the women of the congregation were always in the background, in 1936 they organized as an auxiliary. The first officers of the Sisterhood were: Mesdames Joseph Glube, president; M. S. Fineberg, vice-president; Morris Weiner, treasurer; Manuel Zive, secretary. They laid the foundation of the Sisterhood work. Presidents after the founding were: Mesdames S. S. Jacobson, J. Nathanson, Julius Silverman, Abe Newman, Nathan Green, William Weiner, Louis Roza, Jayson Greenblatt, Irving Webber. The Sisterhood operates a gift shop, holds an annual bazaar, runs used clothing sales, and other projects for funds with which to furnish the Synagogue, libraries, Junior Congregation, Hebrew School, and youth activities.

Saint John, N. B., Shaarei Zedek Synagogue Sisterhood annual Chanukah luncheon had all members of Hadassah as guests. Mesdames A. P. Goldman and Meyer Jacobson were conveners. The apron table, by Mrs. S. Smith, was centred with a rare, antique menorah which had been in the Gilbert family for many years, and now belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Morton Paikowsky. The candles were lit by Mrs. Jerry Koven, president. Invocation was by the honorary president, Mrs. J. J. Freedman. Grace was said by Mrs. Ben Gomberg, president of Hadassah. A special guest was Mrs. George O'Blenis. Chanukah money was given, wrapped in decorated boxes. About seventy people attended.

Besner, 7525 Earle Road; and of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Sand, 2495 Major Street, Montreal.

Brights FINE CANADIAN Wines
SINCE 1874

At your sabbath table, a decanter of wine is as much at home as a challah.

No wine is more welcome in Jewish homes in Canada than Mazel Tov, a wine made from Concord grapes grown on the sunny slopes of the Niagara Peninsula.

Mazel Tov is ruby red in colour, and richly sweet—but not cloying—to the taste. It's a wine you'll "remember", the kind of wine that you used to taste many years ago.

Mazel Tov, made 'Kosher l'Pesach' under strict rabbinical supervision, is available throughout the year for every 'simcha'.

Senegal President Receives W.J.C. Men

President Leopold Senghor, of Senegal, received Dr. Maurice L. Perlzweig, director of the International Affairs Department of the World Jewish Congress, in New York. Dr. Perlzweig discussed with President Senghor arrangements for the visit early next year by Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress, and other Congress leaders to Senegal and neighboring African states. Dr. Perlzweig, who was accompanied by J. Golan, a member of his department, conveyed the greetings of Dr. Goldmann, who was unable to be present on account of indisposition.

The World Jewish Congress leader expreseed the conviction that these contacts would lead to ever closer cooperation between the new African states and the Jewish people in the common struggle for the development of international action against discrimination on racial or religious grounds and for the achievement and maintenance of equal human rights for all. President Senghor welcomed this initiative which would forward the cause of human rights, and said that the achievement of such rights for all people was not only a necessary condition for human progress but would help to relieve international tensions and promote closer understanding and cooperation among all nations.

Association of Toronto held the thirty-seventh annual meeting. Present were M. Adams, Mrs. Eva Applebaum, J. Betesh, J. Fleischman, Ch. Garfunkel, J. B. Goldhar, J. S. Grafstein, J. Granatstein, C. Herlick, Mrs. C. Herlick, A. Hermant, S. Kaiman, M. Konfortie, K. Kramer, S. Kronick, Mrs. A. Lavine, I. Lavine, H. J. Marcus, I. C. Malcolm, L. Neuschul, Mrs. L. Rosefield, S. Rotman, M. Rubinstein, Ben Schneider, L. Scharp, J. Shindman, S. Shendorff, H. J. Smith, Mrs. H. J. Smith, J. Steinberg, J. Wiener, B. Wilson, and I. Caplan, president who presided and gave the annual report. The Association advanced $145,907 to 348 families, and collected against outstanding loans $153,007 during 1960. Mr. Caplan explained how the loan committee, which also constitutes the executive committee, worked on Tuesdays throughout the year to deal with all the applications for loans, and other problems affecting the welfare of the Association. Since its inception loans amounting to $2,815,786 have been granted free of interest or other charges. People from every walk of life have been helped in dignity and sympathy. The maximum loan of $500 was found to be inadequate for business purposes, and the decision was made to increase it to $750 only for cases of emergency for business purposes. Thanks to the generosity of some members of the Jewish community the capital was increased by $18,420, bringing the total to $191,422, in 1960. Mr. Caplan thanked the United Community Fund of Metropolitan Toronto, whose financial assistance for the operational budget makes it possible to carry on this job, and said this agency was proud to be associated with it. James Betesh reported in the absence of the treasurer, Jack Lipson, for the first ten months of 1961. The amount of $11,103 was added to the capital funds, which brought the total to over $203,000 as at October 31. The Statement Of Canon E. W. Scott On The Anti-Semitic Article In The Huron Church News

The following letter from Canon E. W. Scott, executive director of the Anglican Social Service for the Diocese of Rupert's Land, appeared in the Winnipeg Jewish Post:

I read with concern the article in your issue of November 16 commenting upon an article written by the Rev. Rokeby-Thomas which appeared in the Huron Church News. I have since read with even greater concern the original article. With your permission I would like to make several comments concerning it.

1. The Anglican Church encourages freedom of expression and discussion in its own journals. Mr. Rokeby-Thomas was expressing the opinion of an individual priest.

2. The writer was not speaking for the Diocese of Huron and certainly was not speaking for the Diocese of Rupert's Land nor for the Anglican Church of Canada.

3. The official view of the Church is quite different from that set forth by Mr. Rokeby-Thomas as is indicated by the following facts:

a. The Council for Social Service of the Anglican Church was one of the Charter Members of the Canadian Conference of Christians and Jews, now the Canadian Council for Christians and Jews, and is still active in it.

b. This Council gave endorsation to, and publicized extensively the following statement which I feel could well apply to the article in question:

"The Canadian Council of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches, views with great sorrow the spread of anti-Semitic propaganda by various agencies at the present time. Such agitation tends to break the fundamental unity of Canadian life and therefore the status to which all elements of our population are legally entitled. We call upon the leaders of our Christian Churches to urge their people to ignore such propaganda and so far as it bears the imprimatur of 'Christian' organizations, to repudiate it as utterly un-Christian and foreign to the mind of Christ.

"Many Anglicans locally and nationally, while believing in the right and importance of free speech, disagree fundamentally with the views expressed by Mr. Rokeby-Thomas and regret that they ever appeared in print in a Church publication."

The Diocese of Rupert's Land is the seat of the Most Reverend Howard Clark, Primate of All Canada, that is the Senior Bishop in the Anglican Church of Canada.

TEXT OF DEATH SENTENCE AGAINST ADOLF EICHMANN

Dr. Robert Servatius, Eichmann's defense counsel, said that the death sentence had not come as "a surprise" to the former Nazi officer, says the New York Times. "After all," Dr. Servatius added, "Eichmann did not expect that he would be able to return to his family as a free man."

Eichmann, Dr. Servatius continued, was not depressed by his conviction. "He did not complain to me that I could have done more for him as his defense counsel."

Dr. Servatius, interviewed by the Israeli newspaper Yedot Ahronot, praised the conduct of the trial as "a great spiritual achievement." He compared the postwar Nuremberg war crimes trials unfavorably with the proceedings of the Israeli court.

"After all," Dr. Servatius said, "the Israeli court could have delivered a judgment on the following lines: 'We have heard everything and we find the accused guilty.'

"This is not the way the Israeli judges acted. They examined thoroughly and only afterwards did they deliver their verdict. This is a great spiritual achievement."

The counsel also quoted Eichmann as having said that the manner of his capture by Israeli agents in Argentina in May, 1960, "was artistic."

"They did not torture me but only tied me to the bed," Eichmann reported, according to Dr. Servatius. Eichmann, living under an assumed name in Buenos Aires, was kidnapped and spirited to Israel for the trial.

Adolf Eichmann's hopes for a successful appeal from the death sentence given him were kept alive by the Israeli Special Court's ruling that this sentence was not mandatory.

The three Jewish judges, who had fled from Nazi Germany, pronounced the sentence of death by hanging for "crimes of unparalled enormity," but they rejected Attorney General Gideon Hausner's contention that they had to impose death under Israel's law for punishment of Nazis.

Eichmann heard his sentence apparently with the same stony indifference he displayed during the reading of the judgment earlier, says the New York Times.

Some observers thought he blinked rapidly as though trying to hold back tears when Presiding Judge Moshe Landau said: "The court sentences Adolf Eichmann to death." But he stood rigidly with his head thrown back and returned the cold glances from the court.

The former Nazi officer condemned in the murder of 6,000,000 Jews faces the prospect of becoming the first person to be hanged in the state of Israel. But he displayed no sign of fear. The sentencing took twelve minutes and Eichmann stood like a rock through it all.

The text of the death sentence against Adolf Eichmann, read by Presiding Justice Moshe Landau of a special Israeli court is:

I open the 121st session of the trial. The court will now read its sentence. The accused will rise.

Now, at the conclusion of the long proceedings in this case, we have arrived at the stage to impose sentence on the accused. The Attorney General has asked for the death sentence, and his final submission was that this is the sentence that the court is obliged, by law, to impose on one who has been convicted of crimes under Section 1 of the Nazis and Nazi Collaborators (Punishment) Law 5710 — 1950, and therefore the measure of punishment is not a matter for the discretion of the court.

We hold that, indeed, this was so at the time when the said law was enacted, for reasons which were given by the District Court of Tel Aviv in the case of Ingster (Pesakim Mahoziim), 162, 178. But it appears that the position in this respect changed after the enactment of the Criminal Law (Modes of Punishment) 5714—1954.

According to Section 1 of that law, every penalty that is provided for by law would be the maximum penalty and, according to Section 43, the provisions of that law apply both to offenses under the Criminal Code Ordinance 1936 and also to offenses under any other law and, therefore, also the offenses under the law in question. Moreover, Section 40 (1) of the Modes of Punishment Law also repealed Section 42 (1), last paragraph of the Criminal Code Ordinance 1936, which provided that a death penalty was obligatory under that law.

But this doubt does not determine the matter in favor of the stricter construction and therefore we have taken it as our starting point that the measure of punishment in this case is a matter for the discretion of the court.

With a deep sense of the responsibility lying upon us, we have considered what is the proper penalty to be meted out to the accused, and have arrived at the conclusion that for the due punishment of the accused and for the deterrence of others, the maximum penalty laid down by the law has to be imposed in this case.

In our judgment we have described the crimes in which the accused participated—crimes of unparalleled enormity in their nature and their extent. The aim of the crimes against the Jewish people of which the accused has been convicted was to blot out an entire people from the face of the earth, and that is what distinguishes them from crimes against persons as individuals.

It may be said that such total crimes, as also crimes against humanity, which are directed against a group of people as such, are of an even graver nature than the sum total of the criminal acts against individuals of which they are composed.

But at this stage, when the sentence is to be considered, we have to take into account also—and perhaps first and foremost—the injury to the victims as individuals that was involved in these crimes and the untold suffering that they and their families have undergone, and continue to undergo, as the result of these crimes.

Indeed, the dispatch by the accused of every train carrying 1,000 souls to Auschwitz or to any of the places of extermination amounted to direct participation by the accused in 1,000 acts of premeditated murder, and his legal and moral responsibility for those murders is in no way less than the measure of liability of him who put those persons with his own hands into the gas chamber.

Even had we found that the accused acted out of blind obedience, as he alleges, yet we would have said that one who had participated in crimes of such dimensions for years on end has to undergo the greatest punishment known to the law, and no order given to him could be a ground even for mitigating his punishment.

But in fact we have found that, in acting as he did, the accused identified himself in his heart with the orders received by him and was actuated by an ardent desire to attain the criminal object. In our opinion it makes no difference also for the purpose of the penalty to be imposed for such horrible crimes, in which way this inner identification and this desire originated, and whether they were the results of the ideological training that the accused received at the hands of the regime that raised him up, as was pleaded by counsel for the defense.

This court sentences Adolf Eichmann to death for the crimes against the Jewish people, the crimes against humanity, and the war crimes of which he has been found guilty. We do not impose on him punishment for the crimes of membership in hostile organizations of which he has been found guilty [see section 30 (2) last paragraph of the Criminal Procedure (Trial Upon Information) Ordinance and see our A.132/57, 11 Piskei Din, 1544, 1552].

This is the sentence. And now you are at liberty to appeal as regards to judgment and the sentence, and if you wish to do so you must file a notice about the appeal to the office of this court within ten days from today and the reasons for your appeal within fifteen days from today.

Dr. (Robert) Servatius, (the West German defense counsel), if you believe that this time is too short for the accused to prepare his appeal, I beg to call your attention to the fact that there are rules of procedure of the year 1950 enabling the accused to refer himself to the President of the Supreme Court or his deputy requesting an extension of time for the filing of a notice of appeal and the reasons for the appeal, and this is up to the President of the Supreme Court or his deputy at their discretion as these rules and regulations lay down.

is fulfilled only partially and certainly not in the majority of cases.

So many Jewish parents who do send their child for a Jewish education, note that I refrained from saying: who do give their child a Jewish education, leave all, or practically all, the Jewishness to the child and to his Jewish school. But unless there is the full co-operation between at least two of the three factors that mould the life and character of the child, the home and the school, because we have unfortunately not much control over the third important factor: the environment, the success of the educational undertaking is at best precarious.

At this point a very strong case can and should be made for the all-day Jewish school as the most desirable agency for the fashioning of the integrated personality of the Canadian Jewish child. One ought to do that because it is precisely those parents and lay would-be educators, who are most concerned with the Canadianism of the Canadian Jewish child, that are the most vociferous opponents of the all-day Jewish school.

The all-day Jewish school has, by an unfortunate accident of semantics, been misnamed "the parochial school". A "parochial" school would be the worst school for educating the future Canadian Jewish adult. A parochial school is by implication a school which has as its central purpose education towards a one-sided culture, and would be divorced as much as is only permissible from the mainstream of the culture of the wider and larger democratic society.

When we express our preference for the all-day Jewish school we mean by that term an educational system in which the Canadian and Jewish aspects of the curriculum are reasonably integrated, where both are co-centric. We prefer that type of a school for the purposes of our present considerations as over a two-school system — one for the so-called general, Canadian studies and another for the supplementary Jewish studies — precisely because we want the Jewish child to start his school life on an integrated bi-cultural plane, where both, the Canadian and the Jewish aspects of his education, will be co-extensive parts of a unified system. Under such a system neither Canadianism nor Jewishness will be accepted on sufferance; neither will be subservient and secondary to the other.

We will not now argue at length the case for the all-day Jewish school, because we know that the community and the Jewish parents cannot afford to educate all their children in all-day Jewish schools, but what is more important to our thinking, we do not wish to intimate that our educational aim cannot be realized under a two-school system. We admit freely that it is a more difficult task to accomplish under the latter system. Limitations of time, even the very mechanical duality of the system, the, as it were, departmentalizing of the child spell out the added difficulty. I maintain, however, that as long as the supplementary Jewish school and its personnel are fully aware of the limitations and difficulties and evince the willingness and alertness to meet them, a way can be found to ensure the success of the educational enterprise.

The general curriculum of the public school aims to provide all children with those skills and accomplishments, and to instil in them those attitudes and inclinations that will prepare them for living in the Canadian democratic society. That curriculum is being enjoyed by all Jewish children whether they attend the public school or the all-day Jewish school. The specific curriculum of the Jewish school is designed to give them that additional training in Jewish culture and to provide them with those additional experiences in Jewish living that will prepare them for their adult life as Jewish Canadians.
